

What am
I searching for?

There aren't many things in life that are more satisfying than being able to see that whatever you have been working on for so long actually turned out great. And, my god... Had I known that writing down something that was a simple sketch a few years ago would suck me into hours and hours of recording and finally turn into my first real instrumental piece of music.

It is my extreme pleasure to present you this work of my mind and soul, my First Instrumental EP –

“What am I Searching for?”

I don't want you to read too much into the title. I just want you to enjoy the music.
